

CITY RELIEF FUND OF $300 IS CONTRIBUTED BY CITY OFFICIALS TO AID THE POOR

Joe Baker Donates Store Room, Which Will Be Filled With Provisions For Suffering Families.

The greatest of these is char-

Such was the sentiment expressed at a special session of Council this morning which met in the raising of a City Fund of $300 to buy food necessities for Dothan families in need. The sum of $300, which is only a quarter, was subscribed by men in the employ of the city of Dothan and not a nickel of this amount comes out of the City treasury.

A store house donated by Mayor Joe Baker will be supplied with meal, meat, flour, and other food products to be distributed systematically and economically among the poor. Ways will be devised to protect this fund from imposition, so that only genuine cases of poverty will be relieved.

The meeting was called by President of the Council A. D. Whiddon at the instigation of Mayor Joe Baker, who stated the purpose of the session. The mayor said he knew of three houses where there was not a bit of meat in the house, that there were other worthy cases, and that something should be done. He explained that in the past he and the Police Department cared for cases of charity out of the Police Fund, but now there is no such fund. Consequently some provision for the poor must be made, he explained. He offered to start the ball rolling by donating $200—his salary for two months. He said he thought the City ought to make an appropriation, and offered to donate a house to hold provisions to be measured out to the poor.

After some discussion the idea of the City appropriating a fund was abandoned, and it was agreed that members of City Council, the police, the city attorney, the city clerk, the superintendent at the light plant, and in fact all who work for the city, make a donation. This plan met with hearty approval.

In this work politeness was buried. The mayor and City Council united in this undertaking, and there was not a note of discord. When one suggested the other seconded and endorsed, cooperation being the keynote.

The question of distributing provisions caused an interesting discussion as this will entail much detail work, and unless strict vigilance is observed, the magnanimity of the city officials will be imposed upon. A. D. Whiddon urged that a system be perfected along strictly business lines.

F. M. Gaines offered a motion that the question of working out these plans and the appointment of a Purchasing Committee, and such other committees as may be necessary, be left to the mayor, and Alderman J. W. Grant seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously. Those present were Mayor Joe Baker, President of City Council A. D. Whiddon, and Aldermen Grant, Gaines, Martin, Hughes and Ezell. Aldermen Burkett and Holland were absent.

Gaines offered a motion and Grant seconded it, that the public generally be invited to subscribe to this City Relief Fund, and a committee of five members of City Council was named to canvass the city for contributions. On this committee are Aldermen Grant, Ezell, Hughes, Martin and Gaines.

After the meeting Chief of Police Rollins was asked how many families there are in Dothan in actual need of food. He said there were between fifteen and twenty.

L. P. KIRKLAND'S HOME BURNS AT THONOTOSASSA

News has reached the city that L. P. Kirkland's home at Thonotosassa, Fla., was burned Tuesday night. When Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland awoke the house was falling in and they barely escaped with their lives. All their household goods were burned. Miss Mary Essie Hunter of this city, sister of Mrs. Kirkland and a visitor in the home, lost her trunk and contents. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland had recently moved from Dothan to Thonotosassa where Mr. Kirkland has an orange grove.

How to Build Up
Your Credit.

Montgomery Advertiser.

This is a little my talk for the Alabama farmer and the Alabama business man.

It lies within the power of these two forces, co-operating, to make times in Montgomery and in other parts of Alabama better. They can put more money in circulation; but they can't do it unless there is co-operation, not only between themselves, but between all others concerned.

It is the truism of a Montgomery business man that the debtor who forces himself to meet his obligations will now increase the value of his credit fifty per cent over what it would be if he should rock along in an indifferent, if not timid, way and let the man whom he owes suffer.

The best opportunity to build up credit the average man has ever had or is likely to have after this depression passes away, is right now; because the man who at a sacrifice meets his obligations now can be trusted for a greater amount in normal times. Wouldn't you trust such a man farther than you would trust another man who refuses to make any serious effort to pay you now?

The farmer who hoards his cotton and refuses to part with enough of it to pay his just obligations is doing as much harm to himself and his community as if he were hoarding gold; for cotton is ever gold, though off in value. When you store the one commodity that will make business more and refuse to let a bale of it get away from your premises or ware house, to that extent you compel business to stand still. The business man has been hard hit, even as the farmer has been hard hit, and the farmer, like the business man, in our judgment, should take his losses and start over again, pursuing those methods which appear to be advised by the exigencies of the extraordinary situation which confronts us. The Advertiser does not advise a wholesale turning loose of cotton—far from it. But this paper does hold that the man who has cotton ought to sell enough of it to pay all his debts and enable him to pay cash for whatever goods he may buy during the next month or two. He should then hold the rest of his cotton for a better price if he wishes to do so. This would relieve others and give the man who pays his debts in that way a much better credit.

The business man, who owns the cotton money, or his bank, should then be enabled to meet his obligations; he should pay his debts as fast as he can his money. That would not only relieve the other fellow, but it would give him a larger credit, and enable him to keep his business organization intact. The man whose salary is intact has no excuse for not making every effort to settle his debts; there are more salaried men in this community than those who are farmers.

The farmer, the merchant, the teacher, the doctor, the lawyer, the newspaper man, the salesman, the publisher, the stenographer, the editor, and should pay their

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill. I wish every suffering woman would give a trial. I still use Cardui when I feel a little bad, and it always does me good." Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. You cannot make a mistake in trying Cardui for your trouble. It has been helping weak, ailing women for more than fifty years.

debt around town as quickly as that. It helps one to fight off the insinuations that frequently come from high places that those who occupy lowly stations in life have not high ideals. Whether the public ever learns who this particular "cabby" was or not, he has the satisfaction of knowing he paid as high a tribute to clean womanhood as ever fell from the lips of any orator."

And He Got $3,000

A Year.

The report coming out of Atlanta about the city's advertising for 600 men to do some sewer ditching, shows that the places were given first to residents of Atlanta, who had been there some time, and that preference was given to married men with families to support. The item states that one traveling man, who formerly made $3,000 a year on the road, was in the ditch at work, with shovel and pick, and was glad to get something to do to support his family.

There is nothing new about men working when they can get work, but it is a little unusual for men who are capable of making $3,000 a year accepting such jobs. It carries with it a lesson in saving. Any man making $3,000 a year, even in Atlanta, should be able to save some money, unless he has a very expensive family, and living higher than he should. One should try to save money, even on a lower salary. We understand there at stated intervals a committee appointed to make awards to heroes and heroines for saving the lives of others or to their families from misfortunes set apart by Andrew Carnegie, issue a list in which the beneficiary and his or her deed of daring is mentioned. In every instance these awards are made for rescuing or attempting to rescue some one from death by violence. Never, so far as we can recall, has there appeared in these lists the names of an individual who won the prize of merit for a rescue such as was performed by an humble cab driver in South Bend, Ind. He neither risked his life or his limbs in snatching a young girl from death by violence, but he performed a far greater deed in rescuing her from what would have been a living death. This was a deed of heroism such as the angels delight in recording and it is briefly told in the following language by the South Bend Tribune:

We haven't his name, but it doesn't make any difference; the "cabby" who took a strange young girl to the Y. W. C. A. and left her there amid friends, instead of dropping her at a place to which she had been directed by an over-friendly stranger on the train, deserves public recognition and praise.

It didn't take "cabby" long to tumble to the facts in the case. The girl, unsophisticated, had let it be known she was coming to this city to find employment. She had been directed to two questionable places. The one proved vacant; "cabby" knew something about the reputation of the other. He knew too, that his fare was no woman of the world, and with the concern of a father and the kindness of a gentleman he quietly sized up the situation and placed the girl among friends and surroundings clean and wholesome, from where she was returned to her home.

"It refreshes out faith in mankind to read of incidents like those people who would call this a mere pitance, but the great majority of common folks know vary.

As Others See Us

A man named Carmichael downtown a vast deal of good slip by at Dothan shot a policeman three times while the officer was standing at a telephone talking to election. That was the time to some one. Next day he died. The have done the work. Unfortunate coolly walked aroundately the good people divided to police headquarters and sue their strength, and the tiger vote rendered, stating that he had become the deciding vote and the shot the policeman. Dothan is old administration was continued one of the toughest towns in the in power and Dothan is paying the price.—Opelika News.

We have people down here who don't want the papers to publish the bad things about the town. But they are conditions, which cannot be removed by keeping quiet on the subject. When such outrages as above have been perpetrated the world will always know about it, just as the world always knows about such things. The suppression of the reports at home helps no one.

But the News strikes a key note when it says the city did not want a change in conditions. The vote showed that the people were willing for conditions to remain as they were formerly.

Probably Dothan hasn't a greater proportion of criminals than other cities of the same size. We believe all will agree to that, but when it asserts that the juries will come forward and do their duty the city which is a modern Sodom, on a small scale, can be redeemed.—Tuscaloosa Times-Gazette.

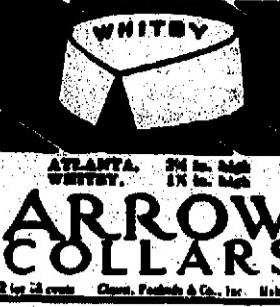

Truly, Dothan is rapidly gaining an unenviable reputation, other cities of the same size. When it asserts that the juries should come forward and do their ways been caught, and when they let the opportunity to do their ways been punished.

Eye Strain in Children After the Measles, Scarlet Fever and Allied Diseases.

Our excellent boards of health in many cities in the union, have very wisely directed that children suffering from the disease above mentioned should be segregated from the rest of their companions in school for a considerable length of time during the continuation of their affection, as well as afterward for fear of infection or possible contagion. This is eminently proper, and should be persisted in carefully, and a rigid quarantine effected and properly maintained during the disease and so long afterward as is deemed necessary.

There is, however, an additional reason why after an apparent

In some upon the silent night
A long time ago,
Ran the ring of bridle reins
Tight and taut and low,
To her door to see
The potentate,
He rode to Bethlehem
So late.

“Mother, dost thou go with gifts?” she cried.
“Follow yonder blazing star,”
Replied King replied.

“Lead me to the babe, new born
In a manger laid,
comes to save the wicked
world.”

“Join our cavalcade.”

I must sweep the ashes up
And put the bread to rime,
I will follow too,” she said
The glory in the skies.”
When the pots and pans were

Queen of Mrs. King—
A beautiful affair of Wednesday afternoon was the card party which Miss Alice Watford, daughter of her sister, Mrs. A. King of Tuscaloosa, arranged decorations suggestive of the Christmas and were especially attract-

ter several games of Auction a delicious luncheon was scoured.

And hearth and table cleared
Behold! the east was dark again
The stars had disappeared.

When loud and sweet the Christmas bells
Chime out from tower and town
Still seeking for the infant Christ,
She wanders up, and down.

Her arms are full of cakes and toys,

Her weary feet are sore,
The snow is on her old gray head
She knocks at every door.

When fair and frosty falls the eve
Of His nativity,
She fills the children's stockings up

And decks the Christmas tree,
No little one is overlooked,
From vale to mountain high,
One might be the Holy Child
And she might pass Him by.

—Minna Irving, in Leslie's.

Mrs. King was presented with a dainty hand-made lingerie waist, Mrs. Joe Bennett was the winner of the club prize, silk

Former Macon Woman Finds New Use For Cotton

Now that the great cotton movement is attracting the attention of the whole world, hundreds and hundreds of newspapers and magazine articles have been written demonstrating the different uses to which cotton can be put.
But it took the ingenuity and skill of a former Macon woman to weave the fleecy staple into a work of artistic beauty. This woman is Mrs. George H. Dolvin, and her achievement is a rose of wonderful formation and beautiful coloring. The rose is made entirely of cotton and is tinted a gorgeous American Beauty shade.

The “Colvin Cotton Rose” is quite the fad in Atlanta, being worn on the muff or dress of littles of the smart set of that city.

It is not only receiving attention and admiration at home, but has been admirably commented upon by papers in New York, Boston,
Chicago and other large cities.

Mrs. Dolvin is now residing in her home. She has hundreds of friends here who are congratulating her on her success with her artistic creation.—Exchange.

Rules Governing the U. D. C. Contest

The Alabama Division United Daughters of the Confederacy have received from Mrs. L. M.
Bashinsky, president, the following rules governing contests for Sophia Hertz and president's medals:

1. All Alabama children of the Confederacy, belonging to Confederate organizations, who are under 15 years of age, are eligible to compete for the Sophia Hertz medal.

2. All children, members of Confederate organizations or not, under the age of 19, are eligible to compete for the president's medal.

3. All contestants may use any books and get information from any person, while studying these questions, but the answers must be written entirely from memory.

4. All contestants for medals must append to their papers the following: “I do hereby solemnly pledge my honor that I have neither given or received any assistance, from any source, save that of my own memory, during the taking of this examination.”

5. All papers submitted in contest for Sophia Hertz, or president's medal, must be signed by a fictitious name and sent to Prof.
E. M. Shackelford, Troy, president State Normal School, Troy,
Ala., not later than April 3.

6. Contestants must send their real and fictitious names to Mrs.
Carl Tutwiler, Dothan, Ala.
Committee of Award.
Prof. E. M. Shackelford, chairman; Prof. Virgil McKinley, Troy

Prof. F. J. Cowart, Troy and Prof.
John McLaren, Troy.

Teachers and C. of C. directors desiring copies of questions can secure same, without cost, upon application to president of division.

We hope many will enter contests for one or more of these handsome medals.

Prize for the First Things in Alabama.

Miss Mildred Rutherford, historian general, U. D. C., offers a copy of her “South in History and Literature” to that member of C. of C. who submits the most authentic list of “First Things in Alabama, and Those in Which Alabama Exceeds.” Lists
must be sent to Mrs. Belle Allen Ross, Montgomery, not later than April 3, 1915.

The successful contestants for these four prizes are urgently requested to attend the U. D. C.
Convention to be held in Bessemer in May, 1915, when the prizes will be awarded to the winners,
or their representatives.

Your interest and co-operation in awakening an interest among your friends and students in these four contests would be much appreciated.

Elizabeth B. Bashinsky,
President Alabama Division United Daughters Confederacy.
